Library Update

FALL 2009

Friends Purchase eBook Collection

The Friends of the Santiago Canyon College Library have graciously agreed to purchase a collection of 2,762 eBooks through the California Community College Consortium.

eBooks are full-text electronic versions of published books that library patrons can search, borrow, read, and return via the Internet. eBooks have taken many formats and variations and have been available for several decades, most notably through the efforts of Project Gutenberg.

For libraries, eBooks have several advantages over traditional printed books. Because they are electronic in nature, they can never be lost or stolen and pages can never be removed or defaced. eBook users can access library resources anywhere and anytime, even when the library is closed. eBooks can be viewed online using an Internet browser and do not require the reader to come to the physical library building. And, finally, eBooks have advanced search capabilities that allow the reader to perform searches across hundreds of books or within a specific book to speed research and reference projects (CCCC).

This generous donation will augment the 11,606 eBook titles (25% of the total collection) currently owned by the Library. eBooks can be located using the Find eBooks link on the Library website.

The SCC Friends of the Library was founded in 2005. Funds are raised to purchase resources and technology as well as assisting in the creation of special programs, such as bringing guest lecturers to the Library.

This semester the Library added a new workshop to compliment the existing MLA/ NoodleBib workshop.

The workshop includes hands-on exercises using the Find Books and Find Articles library resource links.

A full listing of workshop dates is available on the Library website.

Research @ SCC Workshop

The content of this new workshop will include forming searches on a given topic, refining search results, differentiating between different resources, and successfully identifying components necessary to create a Works Cited page.

Citing Your Sources Workshop

The content of this workshop will include a discussion of plagiarism and ways to avoid it, the basics of MLA documentation and hands-on practice using NoodleBib, the web-based citation builder tool.

Would you consider offering extra credit this semester?

Each student who attends the workshop will have a printed quiz with a Librarian's signature as proof of attendance.

Both workshops will be repeated in the spring.

"Title III has enabled us to add many valuable resources to our basic skills collection."

Collection Development Librarian

Title III in the Library

Due to the campus Title III Grant, we are currently able to purchase library materials in the areas of math, learning communities, and academic success. We added books and DVDs on basic math, math anxiety, and math study skills. For the Academic Success Center, we ordered books and DVDs on study skills, student success, and the basics of reading and writing. For the learning communities component, we concentrated on composition and research. Of direct benefit to all students, we acquired an online subscription database, CQ Researcher, that offers extensive information on current and controversial issues that aids students in their research. Access CQ Researcher by clicking on Find Articles and scrolling down to CQ Researcher. For remote access, click on the Connect from Home icon and enter your Webadvisor ID and password.

EBSCOhost Mobile is here!

EBSCOhost Mobile is an optimized EBSCOhost experience for internet-enabled handheld devices, and qualified for all major SmartPhones (such as iPhone, Blackberry and Treo).

EBSCOhost is a powerful online reference system accessible via the Internet. It offers a variety of proprietary full text databases and popular databases from leading information providers.

The comprehensive databases range from general reference collections to subject-specific databases, like Academic Search Premier, for academic libraries (EBSCO).

EBSCOhost Mobile can be accessed through the Connect from Home icon on the Library website.
